Minden OPP officer slain on duty

■ Fenelon Falls man charged in stabbing

by LINDA SHUTT
Staff Reporter

Ontario Provincial Police Constable Eric Nystedt, a resident of Haliburton who worked out of the Minden detachment, was murdered early Saturday morning while trying to make an arrest near Furnace Falls, east of Kinmount.

Nystedt, 24, died from a stab wound to a major artery in his leg after being called to a fight at a house party on Bacon Road at 2 a.m.

One of the combatants had run off into nearby bush and Nystedt and his partner, Constable Mike Landry, began a search.

Nystedt found the man and was stabbed while trying to arrest him.

Landry said by the time he'd run the few feet to his partner "the guy had lunged at him and obviously taken him completely by surprise."

Nystedt was pronounced dead on arrival at Minden Hospital.

The last OPP officer to die in the line of duty was Sgt. Tom Cooper of Kenora who was shot on the Grassy Narrows Reserve in July 1991. The last time a police officer was killed in Haliburton County was in 1968. Two Peterborough officers were shot and killed as they approached a house in Snowdon Township.

Nystedt, a native of Sault Ste. Marie, was assigned to the Minden detachment in September 1990 as a rookie officer. He was single and had a home on South Kashagawigamog Lake Road.

The suspect fled after the stabbing and more than 50 officers from the Peterborough and Barrie areas began a search using helicopters and dogs. Roadblocks were set up along Highway 503 between Furnace Falls and Kinmount.

Vehicles were backed up more than a mile, creating traffic jams in Kinmount, as police searched cars and questioned drivers in their search for the man.

At around noon a suspect was arrested after coming out of the woods near Furnace Falls. He was taken to Cobocok and later transferred to Lindsay.

Lenard Roy Phillips, 33, of Fenelon Falls, has been charged with first degree murder. He appeared in court on Monday and was remanded to July 19.

Nystedt was dedicated to job

The atmosphere at the Minden OPP office was subdued and strangely quiet last Saturday morning. The flags flying at half-mast outside the building on Highway 35 were a mute testament to the tragedy within.

The murder of Constable Eric Nystedt hours earlier had left his fellow officers stunned and saddened.

"It hasn't all hit yet," said Sgt. Steve Adam, who looked strained and tired after being called to the detachment in the early hours of Saturday morning. "It's tragic. It's senseless."

Although Constable Nystedt, a Sault Ste. Marie native, hadn't lived and worked in the area for very long, he made a lasting impression on his fellow officers and in the community.

"He brought a little bit of sunshine and youth into the office," said Staff Sergeant Dennis Edlington, commanding officer of the Minden OPP detachment. "He was the type of person we strive to get into the force. He was a part of our future. Very dedicated and very involved in the community."

Nystedt and his partner, Constable Mike Landry, had worked together for the past six months.

"He was a guy who showed a lot of promise," said Landry, who has been on the force 11 years. "He did everything to the maximum. He touched many people in the community. I'm 10 years older than him but it was like

Injuries sustained in car crash

Mother pulled from burning vehicle by 10-year-old son

by DAVID HILDERLEY
Staff Reporter

A Haliburton woman is thanking good samaritans and her young grandson for saving her son-in-law and daughter after they were injured in a three-vehicle crash north of Fenelon Falls last Thursday.

"I don't know how to thank those strangers who pulled him from the truck," Joy Norwood said yesterday.

"They had to do a lot of pulling to get him out of the truck."

Arnold Mann, 46, of Fenelon Falls was hurt when a car going north on Highway 35, swerved to avoid a turtle and collided head-on with Mann's truck. A third vehicle rear-ended the car that swerved to avoid the turtle, and it sustained minor damage.

Also in the truck with Mann were his wife, Lee, 44, and his son Aaron, 10.

Aaron pulled his mother out of the truck before the heat of the fire from the accident nearly welded the door shut.

Right after the crash Aaron knew he had to rescue his mother, Norwood said.

"Aaron asked his mom how she was and when she didn't respond he decided to try to get her out."

"He did a good job in getting her out but he couldn't get his father out because the door was wedged shut."

Instead, passers-by pulled Arnold out of the truck, before the ambulance arrived. The truck was demolished as it caught on fire after the three occupants were all removed.

Arnold Mann remains in Ross Memorial Hospital with a broken pelvis, and crushed lungs. He may be transported to Toronto to have his pelvis fixed, Norwood said.

Aaron's escaping the accident with only bumps and a few burns was a miracle, Norwood said. "When I saw him I couldn't believe he escaped with only a few burns, compared to what happened to his parents."

Lee Mann was not so lucky as she was taken to the hospital with a broken nose and several bumps and bruises.

"It was awful when I first saw her because I was told that she hadn't been hurt," Norwood said.

"When I walked in she had a puffy face and a broken nose and I could hardly recognize her."

The driver of the car that swerved to miss the turtle, Mary Ann Madill, 27, of Oshawa was taken to Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay with non life-threatening injuries. Her car was also demolished in the accident. The driver of the third car which hit Madill's car, received minor injuries in the crash.

Consultant's report reveals lack of planning in county

by LINDA SHUTT
Staff Reporter

Haliburton County's government suffers from a lack of leadership, a lack of direction or strategic planning, poor management of employees — including nepotism in the placement of staff — and an antiquated accounting system that still relies on manual posting of general ledgers.

Those are just some of the findings of a four-month review of the county's administrative operations and efficiency by Stephen Wace, of Wace and Associates in Barrie.

Wace makes 115 recommendations in a 50-page draft report received by the county council June 30. A final copy of the report will be available to the public early next week. The review was done at the request of the county council and cost $40,000.

Wace also suggests changes that would, if implemented, save the county $250,639 over the next two years. They include everything from stopping the $250 clothing allowance paid to 'inside' staff for a saving of $5,000 a year, to cutting the number of council meetings in a year from nine to eight to save $8,000 annually in per diem payments and mileage expenses, to updating and integrating computer systems that could save as much as $200,000 a year.

But, Wace told the Echo, "one-tier government is where the big bucks are."

A switch to one-tier, said Wace, could save the county between $1.2-million and $1.5-million by streamlining and standardizing services. (See sidebar story).

The county's warden, Chris Hodgson, said he and the other councillors would need time to review the report with their municipal councils and he didn't anticipate the county council addressing the reports recommendations before August.

"We need to debate the issues, and we need a consensus (before taking action)," said Hodgson, who said he felt the report delivered what the council had asked for. "It's good to take a look at how we do business."

Some of the strongest criticism in the report concerned the county's structure and administrative organization.

It identifies a "general lack of financial leadership and expertise within the county", and a council bogged down in administrative details rather than establishing policy and setting goals.

Police to enforce boating speed limits

by JANET HURLEY
Staff Reporter

The provincial police will be cracking down on boaters who ignore speed restrictions this summer.

"I will be writing tickets," Constable Mike Maybee of the Minden OPP told members of the Lake Kashagawigamog Organization at the association's annual general meeting last Saturday. "I will especially be looking at jet skis."

Maybee said he will start to enforce a new speed limit on boats traveling close to shore. The law, which came into effect last fall, restricts boats to a speed of 10 kilometres per hour while traveling within 30 metres of a shoreline.

The Minden OPP have two boats — including an unmarked vessel — to patrol Haliburton County's 600 lakes. Maybee told lake residents that he will be on Kashagawigamog at least five times throughout the summer.

Because it is impossible for the OPP to be on all lakes, all of the time, Maybee urged lake residents to keep their eyes open and report incidents of unsafe boating. He said it is important for people, if they witness an incident, to be prepared to go to court.

"With witnesses, we get convictions. With convictions we let people know that it's not just the cops who don't like (unsafe boating), but everyone."

The last boating incident on Lake Kashagawigamog occurred in August 1991 when a boater, while trying to spray friends in a small boat, nearly hit a sailboat. The boater was charged and convicted of dangerous operation of a vessel.

Funding cuts mean Dysart can make no promises at Drag Lake annual meeting

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

The following are brief reports of items discussed at Sunday morning's meeting of the Drag Lake Property Owners Association, with about 60 people present at Camp Scugog Northwoods.

Bad news on taxes

"The bad news is it's a nice day and I hate to talk about taxes," said Dysart Reeve Chris Hodgson. Dysart et al has lost about $140,000 in provincial grants this year. Of that, $60,000 is supposed to come out of staff wages, but Hodgson noted that the municipality has already successfully asked its unions to freeze wages. "We're going to have to find other ways of cutting expenses. These cuts have been real and we have to adapt to them," he said. He doesn't want the municipality to start running a deficit, which the province says is now allowable.

There should be tax savings found in the recent Wace Report, which studied the efficiency of the county government. As well, there could be economies of scale by amalgamating certain services, such as tax collection. "It's a long process and it's easier to talk about it than actually do anything. We're talking people's jobs, little interests and power so it's hard to do," the reeve said.

Later, someone asked whether the municipality has a responsibility to plow more roads, especially now that more people come up in the winter. Hodgson replied "What I'm telling you is we can't take on any more services." Some road owners get together and hire a private contractor, with the municipality picking up some of the costs. Is there a possibility that a few more Drag Lake roads could be subsidized this way, the man asked. "In good times there was a better possibility," Hodgson said.

Some good news & some dump news

It was Councillor Gerry Walker's responsibility to put a more positive spin on some of the municipality's efforts. A new toilet and tank will be installed at Sandy Point beach. At the Haliburton dump, a new compactor should pay for itself in three or four years. "It's been unbelievable," says Walker. "For the two months we've had the compactor, it's really cut down on the amount of garbage going into the landfill."

Walker got a big laugh when he mentioned that the Haliburton landfill is not a registered stump dump. Waste management has become highly technical and very complicated, and Haliburton is not licenced to accept something as environmentally benign as tree stumps (which also take up a lot of room at the dump.)

In other dump news, one man said that people often dump their garbage at the Dover spring. Could the municipality put in a dumpster? But Walker replied that when there's a dumpster, people will use it instead of going to the dump (and there isn't the money to empty it.) Hodgson said that if anyone notices someone dumping garbage at the side of the road, they should get the person's licence plate number and the municipality will lay charges. As well, tipping fees are another necessary evil. Last year, 6,000 tires went into the landfill; with the minimal charge, that number "has dropped right back."

Beecher subdivision

When someone asked when Dysart was going to close the small road which linked Jones

Drive to the new Beecher subdivision, a voice at the back piped up: "You can't close it, I own it." The small stretch of road is private and is not maintained by the municipality. But residents along Jones Drive are worried that their road will become a thoroughway between Drag Lake and Haliburton village once the subdivision goes in. Walker said the subdivision will be accessed by Dover Spring Road.

Recycle old toys

After last year's positive response, camp director Dana Leahey asked for more donations for the United Church camp. They need anything that will help them keep 60 kids busy on a rainy day - board games, puzzles, children's books, nerf balls, fishing rods, tackle... The camp only has one deck of cards "and pretty soon it will be toast." High chairs for the moms' camp would also be appreciated.

Camp Scugog moved to Drag Lake after spending more than 80 years on Scugog Lake. Leahey commended the association and its members for being such good neighbours. The camp runs on a very tight budget and many of the campers are already heavily subsidized so there's no money for the little extras. Last year, the association donated a microwave oven for the camp staff; this year it donated a television. Leahey is optimistic the members will once again generously respond to the call for children's toys.

Other good deeds

The association donated $100 to the Red Cross Homemakers Program, which helps the elderly and infirm live more comfortably at home.

Volunteers are also needed to help build the cairn which will serve as a memorial to the late Larry Podmore. It will be built between July 13 and 26, and it's hoped the dedication service will be on July 31.

Hydro explains policies

Ontario Hydro's decision not to spray its right-of-ways with herbicides might be a boon to wildflower lovers, but it is more expensive to clear the land manually, said Joe Mitchell, who works with the Minden office's forestry unit. Hydro clears 16 feet on either side of a hydro line and switched to manual cutting several years ago. However, weeds and undesirable plants grow much faster.

If people are concerned about a tree on their property, Hydro will send someone to inspect it and determine if it is Hydro's responsibility. If it isn't, there are several private contractors in the area. As well, if Hydro cuts down the tree, it is the property of the landowner's and cannot be removed without the landowner's permission.

Meanwhile, area manager John Lane - whose job is about to become redundant under the utility's restructuring - said Hydro is doing everything in its power to keep rates down. Most development is on hold and 6,000 jobs are being eliminated from the payroll.

Many cottagers think that the billing system is unfair. Lane says Hydro must cover its fixed costs of getting Hydro to the door, whether that door is opened every day or only on weekends. The theory is that cottagers and permanent residents should pay the same amount for the first 3,000 kilowatt hours. So a year-round, normal density household is charged 22 cents an hour, or $660 for 3,000 kw/h. A seasonal resident must pay a $208 basic charge, plus 19.3 cents for the first 1,500 kw/h and 11 cents for the second 1,500 kw/h. This amounts to $660.

MANHUNT: OPP officers set up road blocks along Highway 503 between Kinmount and Furnace Fall in the search for a suspect in the murder of Constable Eric Nystedt of the Minden detachment.

Memorial fund to be set up in name of slain police officer

there was no age difference. He got me involved in tennis and skiing. He was a very popular person."

Detective Constable Brian Dunham was the coach officer for Nystedt, who came to Minden as a rookie in September 1990 at the age of 22.

"I'm proud to be able to say I trained him," said Dunham. "He was just a super policeman, really involved in the community through sports. He didn't just do his job and go home."

Dunham said the Minden detachment has set up the Eric Nystedt Memorial Fund to provide an annual bursary at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

Donations can be made through the Gordon Monk Funeral Home or at the OPP office in Minden.

A scholarship will be offered each year to a student who excels in sports and academically.

Nystedt was a serious athlete and could often be seen running near his home on South Kashagawigamog Lake Road. He ran 10 to 15 kilometers a day training for marathons and had hoped to compete in the OPP marathon later this year.

He also worked out at the health clubs in Haliburton and Minden, and last winter worked on the ski patrol at Sir Sam's ski resort at Eagle Lake.

For the past two years he competed in the Tuesday Night Tennis League in Haliburton and the league's organizer Eric Edwards said a memorial trophy would be donated to the men's doubles league.

"We played tennis together last Friday," said Edwards. "We talked about how busy things would be this weekend and how we always have to expect the unexpected."

Edwards said his young son Joel saw Nystedt as a role model.

"My son and I have lost a very dear young friend," said

Edwards.

Doug Mitchell also played in the league and his son Drew was Nystedt's doubles partner this year.

"He was a lovely man," said Doug Mitchell. "So gentle and kind. He was a great athlete. A very alive person."

Constable Nystedt is survived by his parents, in Sault Ste. Marie, a brother Scott, who is a senior constable with the Ottawa OPP, and long-time girlfriend Joanne McPhee.

A funeral service will be held in Sault Ste. Marie tomorrow (Wednesday) at 11 a.m. Arthur's Funeral Home, on Wellington Street East in Sault Ste. Marie, is handling the arrangements. All police personnel from the Minden office will be attending the service. Police coverage will be provided by officers from neighbouring detachments.

A memorial service for Constable Nystedt will be held at the Haliburton United Church on Thursday July 15 at 8 p.m.

A fine friend remembered

Many of us lost a friend today. Eric Nystedt had a simple outlook on life. He planned to live it to the fullest and he approached each day with a smile on his face. Eric was one of those people with contagious enthusiasm. Some of us were lucky enough to share a holiday with him this winter. Eric was the one who had the guts to try para-skiing and even though it was not the highlight of his trip he was able to share the experience and laugh about it for days. Eric was dedicated to his personal fitness and was training for the upcoming Toronto Marathon and with that completed he looked forward to a marathon race overseas.

We shed tears for those left behind. Our hearts today are with Joanne, Eric's parents, his fellow police officers and their wives who live in fear of this kind of tragedy. We make a promise to Eric ... we will live our lives to the fullest and in some small way make up for what you have lost.

Tina Moga

Sea-Doo driver charged in lake accident

During the week of June 28th to July 4th, 1993, the Apsley O.P.P. Detachment responded to 36 general incident and 4 motor vehicle accidents.

On July 1st, a boat trailer was stolen. The trailer had been parked at Eels Lake landing and was attached to the owners vehicle. Sometime during the day, the 1989 Silver Boat trailer was disconnected from the vehicle and stolen. An alert for the trailer has been issued.

At 7:30 a.m. on July 3rd, Constable Evans investigated a Domestic Assault in the Cardiff area. The incident began the previous day approximately 80 km outside of the Cardiff. By the late evening, the parties had driven to the Cardiff area and the assault continued. The victim reported the incident the following morning when she felt she was safe. During the series of assaults, the 40-year-old mother had sustained numerous abrasions on her head and face and swelling on her back and neck area. The victim was treated in Apsley and released. As a result of the investigation, a 32-year-old man will face numerous charges including assault with a weapon and threatening death.

On July 4th at approximately 12:15 p.m., Constable Evans responded to a serious boating accident on Kaskabog Lake. A young female was riding a tube on the lake when she was struck by a sea-doo. The female was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment. The driver of the Sea-doo has been charged with Dangerous Driving.

Apsley Detachment has recently received numerous complaints from cottagers about noisy and dangerous boaters on the waterways. Any persons found operating a vessel too close to shore or in an unsafe manner are not only endangering themselves but other people trying to enjoy the waters. Children often swim while vacationing and are easily overlooked by boaters.

New computers, staff training needed

The report says the chief administrator's office is often bypassed by department heads who report straight to council. Departments use a "silo management" style, working in isolation rather than as a team under the chief administrative officer (CAO).

It recommends re-establishing the authority of the CAO who should have "the responsibility, authority and accountability to Council for the governance of the County government including the right to hire, fire, promote, demote, transfer and discipline staff..."

On June 4 the county's personnel committee announced that effective June 30 Gary McKnight would be replaced as CAO. Showdon clerk Ernie Hills has assumed the post on a temporary, part-time basis for one year, pending decisions on the restructuring of the county government.

McKnight is now administrator at Hyland Crest, replacing Rheta Jones who retired at the end of June.

Together with a lack of leadership and organizational structure, the report said the lack of computerized accounting systems is costing the county money and time.

In many cases the needed software is in place but no one knows how to use it.

"They bought the car but not the keys," said Wace.

His report details departments keeping manual general ledgers, manual accounts payable and accounts receivable, a council working blind because it can't get a monthly financial statement, and a lack of integration of the computer systems that are in place, leading to duplication of work.

"One-tier government is where the big bucks are." — Stephen Wace has completed his review of the county's efficiency and organization and he estimates a switch to one-tier government would save Haliburton's municipalities as much as $1.5 million.

In some cases integration hasn't even been achieved within a department. For example, an administrative computer system at Hyland Crest is not integrated with the home's dietary office computer.

The report says updating and integrating the county's computers would cost $150,000, including a consultant to train staff.

The review of personnel management revealed a lack of expertise and direction. Municipal staff, the report says, are poorly managed, poorly trained and in many cases don't have job descriptions or work evaluations.

Of an expected 38 employee policies on issues such as grievance procedures and regular working hours, Haliburton county has 11 in place. One expected policy, non-discriminatory employment, is listed under the county as "nepotism".

Wace found "conspicuously few performance management tools employed within the County" and a general lack of training of staff.

"No one is really responsible for human resources management, personnel matters or labour relations."

A lack of managers' training in labour relations has led to a confrontational approach "that has been costly", particularly at Hyland Crest.

The home went to arbitration — and lost — in a long dispute with its nurses earlier this year.

Recommendations include job descriptions for all non-union staff, a pay policy and salary schedule based on job position and performance, annual performance appraisals, an annual performance appraisal of the CAO by the warden or the personnel committee and labour relations training for the management team at Hyland Crest.

The report was critical of many aspects of the operation of Hyland Crest including:

- a lack of leadership.
- a lack of clarity in managers' roles.

- a labour relations climate that is "not conducive to the attainments of the goals, missions and philosophy of long-term care."
- absenteeism that is unaccounted for.

- a month-end financial statement prepared by auditors at a cost of $535 a month which, if computerized, would save the county $6,420 a year.

Hodgson said the report highlights issues that have been a part of an ongoing process of change at the home.

The report identifies possible savings at Hyland Crest of $104,112 over two years through computer updating and administrative re-organization.

In discussing the county's financial status, the report says it is important for the county to establish a reserve fund of eight to 10 per cent of annual expenditures in preparation for increased provincial downloading of responsibilities.

In an interview, Wace said the county has been very stringent in cutting budgets but it may have gone overboard in holding down tax rates, with an average 40 per cent increase over the last five years compared to 80 per cent in surrounding counties.

"They have no debt, but they have no reserves either. They have to raise taxes now or government downloading is going to deliver a very unpleasant tax surprise."

The report also addresses the question of the county's office buildings. Since the social services department took over part of the council building there has been a lack of office space.

The report suggests five alternatives including — at a cost of $3-million to $3.5-million — a new building either at the Minden rink or on property owned by the council at the Old Allsaw site; renovation and expansion of existing facilities at a cost of $250,000; or the sale of county buildings with the proceeds used towards purchase of the Martin Lumber building at Elephant Lake at a net cost of $570,000.

The latter proposal would, in effect, create a mini-Ottawa and move the county's government out of Minden.

But Hodgson said he thought council facilities were a low priority.

"We are looking to saving money not build a Taj Mahal. We have to put service before cosy accommodation."

In assessing the report, Hodgson said it gave a direction to the council and while some of the recommendations, such as a financial reserve, might not be economically viable now, they were something to work towards.

"There's no genie in a bottle. It's not going to solve all our problems."

Wace suggests one-tier gov't

by LINDA SHUTT
Staff Reporter

In the final pages of his report to county council, Stephen Wace addresses the issue that has been discussed and disputed by councillors for almost a year — the implementation of one-tier government.

Although it wasn't originally in his mandate, Wace said it became obvious a restructuring would be necessary to gain significant savings in the administration and delivery of services.

"What's driving this issue is the change in the senior (provincial) government's ability to fund the municipalities," said Wace. "But ing the original, historic names, each with a representative on the county council.

A full-time warden, earning $45,000 to $50,000 annually, would be selected by a county-wide vote.

The chief administrative officer would report to council, with six administrative departments reporting to her. (See chart pg. 4.)

The report recommends local service boards be appointed in each ward to manage assets and local improvements.

the political will has to be there (to change the structure)."

The current municipal council system would be replaced by between 10 and 14 wards, retain-

Outstanding debts would be eliminated by a ward tax -line on tax bills applicable only to that ward, with assets being retained by the ward.

Snowdon reeve George Simmons, a strong supporter of one-tier government, was pleased by the reports findings.

"I think I can sell one-tier just on the dollars and cents."

A survey of the county's reeves, conducted by the Echo last month, found them divided over the issue, with the smaller municipalities opposing the change. (Echo June 29).

The county's warden, Chris Hodgson, said the debate on one-tier was not yet over.

"We have to find out from the public what they want."

Wace said the county was facing tremendous pressure from issues such as land development and waste management that would have to be looked at collectively, and that there was a lot of experienced people in the 10 municipalities that would be available to work on those issues.

One-tier would, hopefully, raise the standards to the best in each municipality, not sink to the lowest common denominator.

"They've got a lot of talent. If they polled it they could really shake the place up — and add more challenge to the people working for the municipality."

Kashag spurns houseboats

by JANET HURLEY
Staff Reporter

The following are brief reports of items discussed at the annual general meeting of the Lake Kashagawigamog Organization, held at the PineStone Resort on Saturday with about 150 people in attendance:

Environmental report

Over 300 seedlings were distributed, free-of-charge, to residents of Lake Kashagawigamog this year.

For the past four years, the association has been encouraging members to plant trees along the shoreline to protect against runoff and erosion, and for esthetic reasons.

As for lake quality, Mike Irwin, chairman of the environment committee, reported that there is no current data available because of poor water samples. Lake associations can have their lakes tested through the Ministry of the Environment by taking samples and dropping them off in Cobocok. As a result of the inadequate samples, the Lake Kashagawigamog Organization does not have any data on the eutrophication of the lake over the past year. However, samples will be taken this summer.

Irwin also mentioned setting up a reward system to acknowledge Lake Kashagawigamog residents who go out of their way to protect the environment.

"In environmental circles, we tend to chastise people for doing wrong things," said Irwin. "I think we should make people feel good about doing something right."

Irwin urged residents to contact him if they know of some one who should be recognized for their environmental efforts.

Lot identification

Emergency services will find it easier to locate properties on Lake Kashagawigamog now that the area is being properly mapped and marked.

For the past year, the association's lot identification committee, under the guidance of Mary Hincks, has identified and assigned numbers to lots around the lake. At present, there are 525 lots identified on a database. The database includes the name and phone number of every property owner as well as the lot number. This information will be passed on to the fire department, police and ambulance service in order to facilitate emergency response.

New reflective, directional signs are in the process of being erected, as well as lot number signs for each property.

Sewage and fire response updates

Guest speakers Chris Hodgson, reeve of Dysart et al and Councillor Gerry Walker addressed the current hot political issues — the status of the sewage plant expansion and the division of coverage between Dysart et al and Anson, Hindon and Minden fire departments.

Hodgson spoke briefly about the proposed expansion of the sewage treatment plant, which was originally constructed in 1975. He urged everyone to attend the public meeting on the issue, to be held this Friday at the Dysart Community Centre. The meeting will provide the public with information on the project's status, progress and schedule.

Hodgson also urged residents to lobby the government for financing to complete the project.

Walker brought lake residents up to date on the status of fire protection. Because Lake Kashagawigamog is so large, it falls within two municipalities and some properties, currently covered by the AHM fire department, are actually located closer to the Dysart department. Both AHM and Dysart councils, as well as the fire chiefs, have been discussing the possibility of switching responsibility for those properties.

Putting a stop to houseboats

The organization is taking a stand against houseboats on the Lake Kashagawigamog chain of lakes.

Members voted in favour of supporting a change in legislation that would allow municipalities to have jurisdiction over Crown waterways (Kashagawigamog chain) so that municipalities could restrict the use of houseboats on those lakes.

Residents are concerned that without restrictions, the lake could potentially become crowded with houseboats, as is the situation in the Trent-Severn Waterways.

After much discussion, a houseboat was defined as any vessel with toilet, sleeping and cooking facilities.

Regatta reminder

The lake association will be hosting its fourth annual regatta on Saturday, July 31 at the Bonnie View Inn. The fun begins at 2 p.m.

IN BRIEF

Day and night. Thursday and Friday in Haliburton village. On Canada Day, you could have rolled a cannonball down main street Haliburton. The next day, however, the streets were absolutely jammed with sightseers and shoppers. The parking lot at Head Lake had nary an inch to spare. Perhaps some people didn't realize that stores were open on Canada Day, just as they will be on all civic holidays until the end of summer. Another explanation is that there were no Canada Day events in Haliburton, and many people attended the festivities in West Guilford or Minden. Whatever the reason, Friday's crowds were a sight for sore eyes and certainly improved the mood of downtown merchants.

Tanya Little and Robert McKnight are grateful for all the help they have received since the fire at their North Kashagawigamog Lake Road home two weeks ago. Although the fire department estimates that fire damage was about $6,000, smoke and water damage have resulted in the need to gut the entire house and start all over. The insurance company puts the cost of repairs and replacement of damaged possessions at approximately $50,000.

Every 20 seconds, someone in Canada needs blood. The people of Haliburton County can help meet that need on Tuesday, July 13. The Haliburton Legion is once again sponsoring a Red Cross blood donor clinic from 1:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Legion. Only one out of every 100 people in Central Ontario who are eligible to give blood actually do so. And yet every time there is a major operation, blood is needed. The blood supply is also vital to accident and burn victims, cancer patients, organ transplant recipients and people with hemophilia. The Red Cross depends on and appreciates everyone's valuable contribution.

The Children's Aid Society is seeking a volunteer to assist in office duties. If you have good organizational and clerical skills, have one or two half days a week, please call Eloise at 1-743-9751 for more information.

Those daring young men on their flying trapeze are coming back. On August 8, the Stanhope Fire Department is hosting the return of the Kelly-Miller Three Ring Circus, which comes complete with high wire acts, elephant rides and lots of candy floss. Money raised from the day's event will go towards the purchase of a rescue vehicle for the department. Circus lovers will be able to save some money if they buy their tickets in advance. For adults, the price is $8 in advance, $9 at the gate; for children under 12 the price is $5 in advance and $6 at the gate. Two-hundred and fifty children's tickets have already been sold for the two shows, and to get your advanced tickets, please contact the municipal office at 489-2379.

The ever-popular Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts' Summer Sale will soon be back. The show, which highlights the creative talents of Guild members, runs from July 22 to August 2 at J.D. Hodgson Elementary School in Haliburton. This is the Guild's major fundraising activity, and to help keep costs down, volunteers are once again being sought. If you can work during any of the sale hours, please contact the Ralls' End Gallery at 457-2330.

Remember when the railroad used to run excursion trains for schoolchildren from Haliburton county to Toronto's CNE in the 1920s? If you do, please call David Hilderly at the Echo (457-1037), he's working on a story about the trips and would love to spend some time reminiscing.

EDITORIAL In sympathy

There are not many people who risk their lives simply by going to work each day. Anyone can get into an accident on the way to the office, but once there, they can pretty well be guaranteed to work in relative safety.

Until last weekend, Haliburton County was even considered a fairly safe work environment for police officers. There are no crack houses here, few guns more powerful than a hunting rifle and no gangs involved in tribal warfare. It's not that one more calmly accepts the death of a policeman in Toronto, but somehow it doesn't seem as shocking as the death of Minden OPP Const. Eric Nystedt early on Saturday morning. He and his partner responded to a call at a rowdy party and after chasing one party-goer, Const. Nystedt was fatally stabbed in the leg. He was killed simply because he was doing his job.

Would anyone else like to walk in on a party at two in the morning to try to enforce a little calm and civility? And yet if we are bothered by our neighbours' noisy outbursts, we do not hesitate to phone the police so they can somehow bring peace over the land once more. At one time, just the sight of a police uniform was enough to quell most disturbances. Today, like many of our symbols, its power has been greatly diminished.

Const. Nystedt obviously felt that his job was worth his commitment and the risks involved. His death is even more tragic because he was so young and well-liked in the community. As a new police officer, he didn't just stand on the outside looking in. He joined the ski patrol, competed in tennis, made friends. He became a real person, not just someone in a uniform. As Sgt. Steve Adam says, he's exactly the type of officer the force wants to attract. After his death, you could feel this pall over the community, a communal sadness that someone had lost his life for them. Because police officers are, after all, employed by "the people." The people served by the Minden OPP detachment may not have been at that party, but they have, in the past, relied on a police officer for assistance or felt safer just knowing that police officers were there if needed. We want to know someone is here to protect us.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Const. Nystedt's family, his fellow officers, and to the wives who in the coming weeks and months, will be heartsick every time their husbands leave for work. Everyone has lost a sense of security, some of their belief that bad things don't happen to good people and a little bit of their faith in the peacefulness of Haliburton County. Let's hope it never happens again. Ever.

Welcome back

Visitors to Haliburton village last weekend may have noticed store clerks wearing t-shirts which say Welcome Back! This year, the Haliburton County Echo and the Haliburton merchants association decided it was high time to let our summer visitors know the village is glad to see them. Those two words capture the sentiment of many people, both on and off the main street. There's a renewed vibrancy now that cottagers have returned to their seasonal home, and tourists are discovering the Highlands as a peaceful place to relax.

At the Echo, cottagers are an important part of our readership. We want people to feel the Echo is their newspaper, whether they live here year round, or can only make it up every second weekend. It would be a tremendous help if cottage associations could put us on their mailing list. And don't hesitate to phone us with story ideas about fascinating neighbours, ingenious cottage contraptions such as beaver baffles and the cottager who goes out of his or her way to make the lake a better place to live. Tired of environmental preaching

To the Editor from our Readers

To the Editor:

Over the past years, I have enjoyed Martha Perkins' ability to produce interesting articles on the people and places of Haliburton county, every week. What a terrific job she does!

Sadly, in the June 22 issue, she fell prey to Cathy Kinsman's fashionable eco-preaching (Born-free ... Dolphins), which amounts to a two-page sermon on the correct way to see animals, according to Ms. Kinsman, great authority in the matter.

Ms. Kinsman tried to be gentle on us and did not expand her position on animals in captivity. Other activists have ... and the message is that zoos are just as evil as attraction parks and should also be eliminated.

Basically, this person wants to lay a guilt trip on every family that spends a day off at an attraction like Wonderland, Marineland ... or the zoo, because they house captive animals. What about the new Rain Forest exhibit at the Ontario Science Centre ... is that one also "impure"?

Truth is, the vast majority of Canadians could not get to see a dolphin or other exotic mammal, for that matter, if they could not see them in a zoo or marine park.

According to Ms. Kinsman, sensitive "correct" people should visit dolphins in their habitat, like she does. Further, she can tell when dolphins are happy or sad. How admirable and perceptive. She conveniently forgets to mention two things. First, the cost of a boat charter in the Florida Keys, which runs at about $600. U.S. a day, with no guarantee of sighting dolphins, much less swimming with them. Second, to swim with dolphins, you've got to find them, then approach them close enough, which may constitute harassment. To protect whales and dolphins, some states like Hawaii have had to institute regulations forbidding boats from approaching them at less than 300 to 500 yards. Otherwise, all these sweet, enthusiastic and "correct" nature lovers would drive these beasts crazy and prevent them from mating or nursing their calves in peace. Whale and dolphins don't have signs for "no trespassing"!

So Ms. Kinsman's trips to the Keys were expensive, but they were and tax deductible cost of producing her video, which she is now peddling to us. For the rest of us, such a "research vacation" is but a dream.

I am sure Ms. Kinsman's lifestyle fully reflects her activist credo: her diet excludes meat (the ultimate domination over animals), eggs and dairy products (poor sad captive hens and cons); nor does any fur or leather grace her wardrobe, shoes and handbags included.

Let's be honest: we humans exploit nature by simply being on earth. Sure, we can limit the damage. But spare us the constant preaching by "activists" who have found a convenient bandwagon to make a profit ... or in this case, to subsidize Florida vacations! They give the environmental movement a bad name!

Andrée Fredette,
Little Kennis Lake.

P.S. When is Ms. Kinsman demonstrating her true commitment to the cause by taking on the "domination over animals" that occurs every fall in Haliburton County: Hunting season? I'll bet she would encounter knowledgeable resistance to her notions ... and nastier weather!

And Ms. Perkins: I'll bet you didn't check her assertion that West Edmonton Mall removed their dolphin show on the say so of an unknown chanteuse ... It might have been a wise business decision, after all.

Song Birds in the Rhubarb Patch

To the Editor:

While the majority of folks in the Rhubarb Capitol have not soured on its lifestyle, it seems there has been some rhubarbing of late with regards to a few mutts in Eagle Lake, somewhere along the beautiful babbling shoreline of the Gull River. It seems to be a crying shame that the injured have to lick their bleeding sores in public. The hue and din of the fracas can be heard all over the countryside, creating a noise of such huge proportions that all good folks have been threatened with yet another bylaw. Just what everyone needs - not!

Whatever happened to the good neighbor policy. It used to be if neighbors had a difference, they could approach one another to make a quiet resolve, leaving dirty laundering to be a non-public event. While most of us would enjoy to leave sleeping dogs lie, a few can relate to certain isolated areas of the county where a barking dog(s) may be a nuisance. If one is truly in this type of situation, it most certainly can lessen the quality of life. Perhaps a bylaw is the only solution to a genuine problem such as this. However once the bylaw is in place, the situation may revert to the other extreme wherein if anyone hears a few occasional barks, the township office will be flooded with complaint calls, and many pet owners will be harassed needlessly by bylaw enforcement personnel. On top of all of this, is the extra work it creates for an already burdened municipal staff, giving them ample opportunity to just dog it instead.

Most pet owners attempt to be responsible in keeping the neighborhood a fine place to live, but a few bad apples can spoil the entire barrel. It's really a crying shame that it has to come to this, in what used to be peaceful rural Ontario. Let's not forget that this applies to all dogs, even the lap-top variety as well, but hounds seem to get mentioned, even though other varieties of dogs may be responsible. Although it's only a few people still carrying on old traditions of the past, all sporting dog owners feel the overcrowding taking place, leaving nowhere to turn, nowhere to enjoy old traditions, nowhere to keep a sporting dog in a overcrowded community, and nowhere to hear and enjoy the excitement of the chase, leaving dogs on the receiving end of yet another blow. Not only do dogs have to be chained up most of the year, but now with the ensuing bylaw, dogs will have to be muzzled as well. Talk about cruelty to animals! This comes awfully close, doesn't it?

Although a few songbirds may not enjoy the flavor of life amongst the rhubarb in Eagle Lake or Gull River, as at least one nesting pair have already been observed making migratory plans, it is with a great deal of optimism that I savor a better quality of life at nearby Cranberry Lake, with hopes that if any of my neighbors wish to address a problem, that we can arrive at a quiet friendly resolve.

A.R. Paul,
Haliburton.

Herbs should be regulated

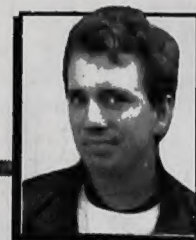

To the Editor:

Debbie Bentley's letter June 22 objects to the amendment of the Food and Drug regulations which will prevent the sale of many herbs under the relatively loose regulations applying to foods. Instead suppliers will be required to meet the much more stringent standards of safety, purity and efficacy applicable to drugs which is long overdue. Ms. Bentley makes some sweeping statements about many of these being in "safe use" for decades and that "not all of the herbs on the list are dangerous".

Unfortunately not enough is known about the sometimes powerful chemical compounds in these botanical products and self-medicating with them may be dangerous or useless.

There is much useful medical knowledge to be learned from herbs and a good example is one she mentions, feverfew, which has been used for thousands of years for a variety of ailments, particularly migraine. Only recently, however, has there

CITY SLICKER
DAVID CARROLL

PINE POINT, KENNISIS LAKE: Kevin's wife is reading a book at the picnic table: something pulpy, so she doesn't have to think. Tiny Todd is on the floor at her feet: wheeling back and forth in his "Cozy Coupe." When he sees me coming he steers for my legs. I ask him if he's hungry and he whispers: "Captain Crunch."

8 a.m., Saturday morning. Already it is humid and hot, one of those not-a-cloud-in-the-sky days. Tamara leaves the table and walks down to the lake: alone except for the perennial cup of tea. The family rises while she is gone, and speaks in murmurs above Todd's blonde head. We talk of Kevin, and how much we wish he were here. Dad would have recruited him to chop some logs and Mom would have measured his chest for another sweater. The dogs would have mobbed him, his son would have hugged him, I'd have made coffee, and his wife would have cried.

But such is not to be. When Tamara returns she has a toad in her hand. She offers it to Todd, who squeezes it until it pees. Far from being offended, Todd takes this act as a sign of affection. He names the toad "Snort" and places it in a basin with some moss. Mike gives Snort a worm and the toad guzzles it down.

After breakfast Tamara and Todd and Susanne and myself take the rowboat out to Cabin Island. We climb the rocky banks to the decrepit shack and pour over the graffiti that lines the walls. Tamara finds one passage that reads "Flower Power 1967," and Susanne discovers a "Bobby Rae '55." Todd, who until now has been catching beetles for Snort, takes this moment to dampen the mood. "Too bad Daddy isn't here," he says. "My father liked to carve in wood." For a moment there is an uncomfortable silence, like those time after our family dog died, and puppy chow commercials kept coming on TV. Tamara takes Todd's hand and leads him down the slope to the rowboat. Susanne and I follow at a distance, kicking grayish pinecones into the wind. Given the somber context of the day, the sunshine seems outrageously cruel.

6:12 p.m.: The mood here has improved considerably. Jimmy Buffet is blaring on the radio: "The weather is here/Wish you were beautiful." Todd goes outside to set Snort free, but finds the toad dead in the basin, tummy up. Oddly enough, the boy is unmoved by this development. With all the detachment of an IBM computer, he deposits the amphibian in the compost heap. Dinner, meanwhile, is stinking up the kitchen. We're having baked Marconi" since someone spelled the original recipe wrong. "Poor old Marconi," says Andy. "I guess you don't get much respect for inventing the wireless."

10:25 p.m.: Just got back from a late-night dip. The sky was black, and the wind was sticky-hot. Lightning flashed through silvery clouds as we swam, and afterwards, while toweling off, we watched the natural pyrotechnic display. Now everyone is toddling to bed. Except for Tamara, who's playing solitaire in the kitchen.

1:46 a.m.: It's raining now, and I'm the only one awake. I'm sitting cross-legged in the front room, writing by the light of a beeswax candle. I've got my laptop on my laptop and a glass of Kennisis in my hand. The rain on the shingles is delightfully loud. It sounds like chipmunks skittering about in clogs.

At two o'clock my candle goes out. I don't know what I'm still doing up. I think of the last time I saw Kevin, a year and a half ago in Quebec: we argued politics until two and then watched Todd sleep until four. Early the next morning I had to leave, and I remember feeling depressed because good friends are so rare. Once I got on the train I was fine. Once you forget who you're leaving and remember where you're going you're always fine.

Lightning flashes through the trees. I keep expecting thunder but it never comes. I take a sip of Kennisis and feel a profound sense of loss. It was on a night like tonight that Kevin was hurt. A drunk driver hit him and dragged him down a sidewalk. The memory fills me with bitterness and hate, a venomous hatred that eats me alive. I have been through evenings such as this before: I briefly get mad, then I consider joining MADD, and in the end I do nothing worthwhile at all.

2:44 a.m.: Still raining. The lightning goes Flash! and the wind sweeps through the trees. Monty sneezes on the bathroom floor. I hear Todd's steady breathing somewhere off to my left.

Dear Kevin: The weather is wonderful. Wish you were here.

Pic of the Past

In the heat of the summer, maybe this picture will act as a visual air conditioner. It shows six young local lads in 1951, gathered at the hockey rink Ab LaRue made every winter in front of his business, Island Snack Bar (where Country Rose and Shrub stands today.) The boys are, from left, Bruce Sawyer, Bud Vickery, Jackie Brown, Scotty LaRue, Ian Neville and Wayne Hussey. Our thanks to Wilda LaRue of Haliburton for sharing this photo with us.

Boater regulations needed

A COUPLE OF RECENT but seemingly-unrelated news stories last week: One involved the announcement of the coming retirement of MPP Allan McLean, Simcoe East. The other had the crown attorney in Orillia appealing a case involving a fatal boating accident.

McLean, who also lives in an area of lakes — and motorboats like ours, seems to be the only one in the legislature to pay any attention to the problems caused by the fact that any fool can jump into a boat or onto a jet-ski and go roaring about.

No doubt McLean's last private member's bill on the subject will also fall from the order paper and disappear below the surface without a trace. After all, this is the NDP government that bowed to the powerful boating interests after first announcing that they would require all boats large enough to sleep on to have holding tanks to contain their "gray" water.

That's what they call all the water flushed overboard that doesn't actually come from toilets

(which is known as "black" water). It has been found to spread nutrients that encourage algae growth and fecal bacteria. Environmentalists, cottage groups, and several municipalities tried to get the ban in 1992.

The provincial government backed off after the powerful lobbying group under the Allied Boating Association of Canada started throwing their weight — and money — around. Boaters later boasted that thwarting the regulation would save them some $100 million dollars.

The court case involved a teen-ager whose jet-ski sliced open a canoe when he was showing off and drove directly at it — and then discovered he couldn't turn the high-powered watercraft abruptly. He killed two 17-year-old girls and injured another on the Severn River in 1991. Just two of the 220 fatalities on Ontario waterways in any average year.

If it was a car, he would have been charged with dangerous driving at the very least — and probably lost his licence. But since he didn't have to have one to roar around on a jet-ski, he didn't lose it. He got off because the judge thought the charge laid was too stiff for the crime.

McLean's bill would have made it illegal for anyone to drive a boat powered by a motor of 25 horsepower or greater without first completing a safety course and taking a written examination on

In the good ol' summertime

NORTHERN LIGHTS
VIRGINIA MUENZEL

IT MUST BE summer, because the madness has begun. And, happily, the weather is better than last year. My garden is gleefully soaking up the rains, and sprouting in the sun. Even the hailstorm didn't cause any terminal damage.

If I can hold up for a couple of more weeks, I'll be able to start moving furniture, and deep clean this whole house, right in the middle of the Sir Sandford Social swirl. At least I won't have to do much cooking.

Last week, I totally lost control again. Jeremy, our pre-pubescent grandson, who has entered the 'I'm bored' phase of his life, is spending some time with us while his mom is in school. We're certainly giving him plenty to talk about, if nothing else.

Del Sharp and company are doing their thing. Once the track light fitting gets installed, there will be light. Shane's crew have to return to do the finishing.

In the meantime, we've been painting. One coat of sealer and two coats of latex. But, as I said, the madness has begun, and I've lost control. In his zeal to get everything possible done around here before summer school opens, Ed invited the honey-dew truck to pay us a visit. Sam, being anxious to please Ed, showed up almost immediately. Right in the middle of the first coat of paint, when the windows were all open for ventilation. We closed all the windows. It didn't help. The cats left town. The dog crawled deep into his house. Jeremy tried to bury his face. We had to keep on painting, we were on a tight time frame. Immediately upon Sam's departure, the dog, whose run goes over the septic tank, came out of his house, and purposefully rolled in the surrounding grass.

That was Monday. Tuesday afternoon we managed to get the second coat on without incident.

Then it was Wednesday. Bill, was doing his electrical thing. I was attacking the weeds in the onion/carrot bed, and I had just convinced Jeremy that it would be very helpful to me if he would vacuum the back of my Sprint, when the phone rang.

Our new chickens, which were supposed to be ready the end of May, had finally arrived at the feed store in Minden, and wouldn't I like to come get them right away. It was moving week at Sir Sandford. I was on my own.

Jeremy didn't have to vacuum the car. We left for Minden. I made the mistake of taking highway 118 from West Guilford to Camarvon. Between cranes, bulldozers, and dump trucks, it took us half an hour to do a two mile stretch.

Luckily, the Sprint has a hatch-back. With the seats folded down, the craft of twelve chickens just fit. We opened all the windows, and with feathers flying, and Jeremy once again holding his nose, we headed for home the long way around. It only took two days to get the smell out of the car.

In the meantime, Eddie and his family needed a cheap, long weekend get-away. So we gave them permission to use the cabin. Which was nice, since it sits idle most of the time. So Wednesday afternoon, he comes with his weed-whacker and a van full of supplies. (For a long weekend) On the morning of Canada Day, two parents, two kids, and one dog show up in two vans full of supplies. (For one long week-end) How they got all that into one 8' x 16' cabin is more than I'll ever understand.

Thank goodness Sheila is back up from the city. Her delightful mom came up for the long weekend with a baking dish full of stuffed cabbage rolls for the first official feast of the summer. It was a chance to relax over tea in a gazebo, next to a fragrant flower garden, while the phoebes, the catbirds, and robins serenaded us.

It's a good thing too, because first thing Friday morning, David called, desperately needing a babysitter for Alexandria and Whitney that afternoon. Jeremy was already here. And the grand-puppy that my cats despise keeps wandering up from the cabin. And Friday was the day we catheterized Yeti. And when Ed came home from a twelve hour day to all this As I said, the madness has begun.

Evening ends with a bang

DOWN OUR ROAD
SHARON LYNCH

A WAY IN THE BACK OF NED'S STORE, under some ancient burlap sacks, was a crate of old fashioned, noisier-than-hell, what-kid-wouldn't-love-them firecrackers. They were the kind that looked like miniature pieces of dynamite. I couldn't tell you what they were called as I had been an obedient and proper child, not at all the type to scare old people and nervous cats with firecrackers.

But when Ron saw these beauties in Ned's basement, he recognized them immediately. Memories of the field out behind his childhood home came flooding back. The smoky haze on a summer's eve; the smell of gunpowder mixed with dew, making the chalky scent all the more potent.

Seeing a look of nostalgia cloud Ron's eye, Ned gave him a package for old time sakes. The two men had stood shoulder to shoulder as boys on many a summer's eve, their eyes stinging and their ears ringing. It had been marvellous.

Several days later Ron had got around to telling his wife about the firecrackers. They were finishing off the last bites of a special dinner, cooked in honour of her new promotion. What better way to top off an evening of lobster and champagne than a congratulatory bang on the deck? However, her response was not as enthusiastic as Ron had hoped. She was tired. It had been a long day and now, full of food and drink, bed was much more appealing than noise.

Ron knew that another opportunity was bound to present itself, an occasion calling for the mem-

Gelert pole vaulter reaches for top

By DAVID HILDERLEY
Staff Reporter

Gelert pole vaulting star Endres Weber is looking forward to leaping at York University or another school following his fourth place finish in the OFSA meet last month.

Weber finished fourth in the June 12th meet at York, which was delayed because of high winds on June 4. Weber cleared 3.95 metres, while the champion of the meet vaulted 4.65.

"It was impressive that he placed fifth in Ontario last year as a junior, but to finish fourth as a senior is really impressive," his father Norm said.

Weber said he wants to train at York year-round because it has an indoor stadium for pole-vaulting, and he wants to stay in form during the winter. Now he drives to Toronto once a week to practice, and would like to move to shorten the commute.

"It is just so much easier for me to be within a short walk of where I can train year round."

Another reason for the move is because he wants to attend a school in King City, north of Toronto, where a pole vaulting expert teaches. Weber said he needs more specific teaching and to join a track club so he can compete in all of the pole vaulting competitions.

At the recent Zone Golf Tournament in Beaverton, a local foursome brought home the hardware. Doing the Haliburton Legion proud were from left, Jack DeYoung, Beryl Gorin and Ab Norman. (Absent is Don Campbell.) Gorin carded the second lowest score with 83.

Minden party a success

"A great community effort". That's how Lisa Connelly, the motor behind Minden's Canada Day celebration, described its smashing success.

More than a thousand people thronged the downtown area throughout the day last Thursday for events that started with a pancake breakfast at dawn and ended at dusk with a fireworks display. The brilliant sunshine and non-stop entertainment - from country and western line dancing to watermelon seed spitting - kept the crowds smiling all day.

The Lions Club, the Rotary Club and the Legion were among those involved in the organization and running of the day's events.

The highlight of the day was the Crazy Raft race and the team that took first prize - Kal Anderson, brothers Kevin and Gary Smith and nephew Kirk from Minden, with friends John Vuksic and Brian Waller from Haliburton - won by a river length, to collect $150 and a trophy donated by the Rotary Club.

Connelly is already planning next year's party and says it's the volunteers and community groups that help make Canada's birthday celebration such a success in Minden.

"I think it's got the community working more together," said Connelly. "It's a real Canadian day."

Clockwise from top left: HHSS music teacher Tom Regina plays flute on the Heritage Plaza float in the river parade, the winners of the Crazy Raft race forge to victory, Barry Dunn enjoys corn at the Minden museum and guest of honour RCMP Constable Carol Clarke from Bowmanville was a hit with the kids.

STRUMMIN' A TUNE: Country musician Johnny Burke and Eastwind took to the stage in the hot afternoon.

Minden goes country

The sweet sounds of country music filled the air at the Minden fairgrounds on Saturday when Mattsson's Country Club owners played host to some of Canada's top entertainers

by JANET HURLEY
Staff Reporter

AN ESTIMATED 1,500 people soaked up the sun and sounds of country music at Canada's Country Birthday Bash in Minden last weekend.

The day-long concert, held at the Minden fairgrounds on Saturday, featured all-Canadian acts with the popular Rankin Family headlining the bill.

"It was a great day. The weather was great. People had fun," said concert-organizer John Mattsson, owner of Mattsson's Country Club.

People started arriving long before noon to secure themselves a good spot on the field. They came from Toronto and Minden and everywhere in between.

The crowd numbered about 500 for most of the afternoon, but tripled as the show went into the evening.

Under a hot sun, people stretched out and suntanned while opening act, Rick Jones, took the stage. The line-up of acts included Johnny Burke, Harold MacIntyre, Eddie Eastman, Larry and Laura Mattsson, Don Neilson, and the Rankin Family.

Mattsson is busy calculating the final figures for the concert and he said the possibility of making the bash an annual event will depend on "the bottom line. But it looks like we'll be doing something again."

MINISTRY OF NATURAL RESOURCES PUBLIC NOTICE of a PRESCRIBED BURN

Between mid-June & mid August, the Ministry of Natural Resources will be conducting two prescribed burns in this area for reforestation purposes. The first of these is 15km southeast of Kinnmount, about one kilometre northeast of Crystal Lake along the Galway-Cavendish township line. The second is located 15km west of Carnarvon, about one kilometre north of Anson Lake (also known as Montgomery Lake) in Hindon Township. The exact date of these burns will depend on suitable weather conditions and any northern fire-fighting assignments for the Haliburton Fire Centre's crews. The most probable date for the burns is during the last two weeks of July.

If you observe smoke or helicopter activity in the area of these prescribed burns during this period, please do not drive to them for a closer look. Access to the burn sites will be closed, and curious on-lookers will only block traffic and impede the movements of the MNR fire crew. You will be welcome to view the site after the fire has been extinguished.

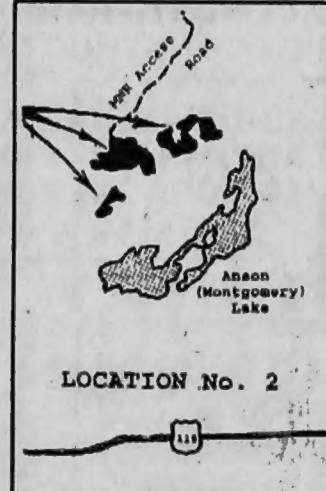

The purpose of these prescribed burn is to prepare two recently logged areas for the planting of 192,000 white pine, hemlock and spruce in the spring of 1994. For information on this prescribed burn or on other forestry activities in this area, please contact Peter Hynard of the MNR Minden office at (705) 286-1521. For information on the day of the burn, call the Haliburton Fire Centre at (705) 457-2107.

jobsOntario is a new job creation program with a big difference

Our current economy not only makes finding work a challenge, it has also reduced the number of opportunities for on-the-job training. Training isn't something that only happens in the classroom. Some of the most valuable and up-to-date training happens at work. The fewer jobs there are, the less of this training there is. This not only hurts workers, but hurts employers as well.

The good news is that there is a provincial government program, aimed right at this problem. Since setting up shop at Sir Sandford Fleming College's Career House in Lindsay, jobsOntario has resulted in placing 33 people in a wide variety of jobs.

jobsOntario is a job creation program with a difference. Other job creation projects have encouraged employers to hire people by paying part of the employee's wages for a period of time. All to often this resulted in short-term employment, with little opportunity for ongoing work with the company.

"This program is a tool for people looking for work and interested in getting some training, and for employers who want to make an investment in training," says Zita Devan, the jobsOntario coordinator in Lindsay.

If you are an Ontario resident, are legally entitled to work in Canada, are receiving full or partial social assistance (General Welfare or family Benefits), or have exhausted your unemployment benefits, you might want to register with jobsOntario.

jobsOntario Offsets the costs of training new employees in newly created positions. This means that if an employer is planning to hire additional staff, and if the job is a long-term one, they are eligible for a training credit, which has the same effect as a wage subsidy.

The 33 people that have been trained and placed in new jobs with the assistance of this program are working in wide variety of occupations including, machine operator, warehouse person, welder fitter, computer service technician, systems analyst/programmer, and several sorts of sales positions.

The process is different for employers and employees, explains Zita, but each begins with a call to the jobsOntario office. In Lindsay, jobsOntario can be reached at 328-1766. In Haliburton, the jobsOntario contact is Mike Kitchman. He can be reached at his office on the College's Haliburton campus at 457-2020.

In our next column we'll introduce you to one of the people who used jobsOntario as part of his search for employment, and the employer who hired him.

If you have questions or comments for Talking About Unemployment, drop us a line at P.O. Box 5555, Omemece, Ontario K0L 2W0, or call us COLLECT at extension 253, (705) 749-5530.

Games pipe in to Haliburton

by LINDA SHUTT
Staff Reporter

The swirl of pipes and kilts are an inevitable part of Haliburton's Highland Games this Saturday (July 10). Add to that caber tossing, stone pulls, Scottish tartan and highland flings, and you've got yourself a real Gaelic celebration.

Seven pipes and drums bands together with, as special guests, the 55-piece Toronto Signals Trumpet Band, will highlight the 5th annual Games, which will be held this year at Haliburton's Head Lake Park.

Tests of strength, endurance and just plain craziness begin at 11 a.m. and include shoulder-numbing exercises like carrying 200 lb. cement blocks - one on each shoulder - until they or the participant drop.

"That one is a real crowd-pleaser," said organizer Andy Campbell. "Last year we had someone carry them right out of the park."

Prizes will be given for competitors in highland dancing - which draws competitors from across the country as well as local dancers -, arm wrestling - both men's and women's -, hammer throwing and a full slate of kids events.

The children's Games are organized by Camp Wanakita and include a mini-caber toss, fishing in Loch Ness and water games.

The entry fee for the day of entertainment is $6 with no charge for children under 12.

AN ARTISTIC AFFAIR

Hundreds of people took the opportunity this past weekend to see what Haliburton County artists have to offer. The Artisans Festival, held Saturday and Sunday at the Minden Community Centre, hosted painters, woodworkers, and numerous other creative types. Above, Kari Siirala demonstrates a lovable Wrinkles puppet (by Sennitt puppets) to Wenda Colby and her daughter Amy. At left, Irondale resident Robert Jones carves his wood creations.

Parade marshal Len Donner lies the Maple Leaf on top of the drums at the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 636 drumhead in Minden last week. The ceremony, attended by 13 region Legion branches, is a ceremonial event commemorating soldiers in battle who piled their drums together to create a temporary altar.

Fun benefit concert raises funds for network

by ELIZA GARDINER
Special to the Echo

"The music was new, black polished chrome and it came over the city like liquid night."

James Douglas Morrison's words describe well the flow of music as it drifted up through Haliburton Village from Head Lake Park this past Saturday. Puzzle Factory's benefit concert was successful in its quest to attract people to the bandshell to hear their music and give to the worthy cause of Haliburton County's Women's Safety Network.

Along with the band's faithful fans came curious onlookers from the sun and sand of Rotary Park - cars were opened to the sounds of rock and roll classics and people wandered into the shell area, content to relax in the sun while the music filled the air.

Jude King, of the Women's Safety Network, was pleased that the event took place and, by the end of the six hour music marathon, Puzzle Factory and their guests were proud to donate the proceeds of $120 to the program. The Factory, consisting of Jon Aggett, Kevin Wood, Clay Kidd and Callum Wood, pumped out some grooving tunes - including an excellent rendition of Stevie Ray Vaughan's 'Cold Shot' - before being joined by slide guitar and blues singer Eric Litman. Litman played the blues with the band and then exchanged his electric guitar for an acoustic that well-suited the mellow mood of the day.

With the wind off the lake cooling the sun-baked ground, the audience was treated to Kountry Kidd who played a nice range of songs that attracted a wedding party using the park's fountain as a background for their pictures. The bride and groom danced a special wedding waltz, much to the band and crowd's delight. Zoe Chilco sang with Kountry Kidd and Puzzle Factory welcomed her onstage for a few numbers, among them a sweet version of 'House of the Rising Sun'. Ken Whiteley was not slated to perform at Saturday's show but will be a part of Chilco's benefit concert in the fall.

With this show under its belt, Puzzle Factory is hoping that the experience will lead to more of the same; they're considering organizing another event to take place later this year, perhaps for the benefit of the Food Bank or another of the county's social service groups.

Music has been the cause of much needed unity in the world and, with people like those who volunteered their time and talents to July third's concert, it can only continue on its path leading to awareness and enlightenment.

been a method of measuring the content of the active compound in feverfew. Studies revealed that the reason why it worked in some cases and not others is that much feverfew sold in leaf form contained little or none of the active compound!

The Health Protection Branch recently approved a standardized certified feverfew product permitting it to claim that it will prevent or reduce the frequency and severity of migraine attacks. It is a natural feverfew product from a special strain of the plant grown in the UK which can guarantee the necessary quantity of the active ingredient and may be a wonderful boon to migraine sufferers.

The point is that without the application of science to ensure safety, purity and efficacy people may be unwittingly exposed to risk or at best wasting their money. These new regulations represent progress and should be supported enthusiastically.

Whose the boss?

To the Editor:

Restraint: This is a word you hear frequently from all levels of Government. My wife and I shake our heads in disbelief every time our elected officials put it into practice. The latest being the whopping increase the senate voted themselves — $6,000 a year. Tax free. It increased their salary to approx. $81,000 per year and $16,000 tax free. They only work about ten weeks per year for this money. Break it down, an increase of $600 per week. It's no wonder the provincial employees are balking at the roll backs and wage freezes.

It's high time we Canadians wake up to the fact we are allowing Government (all levels) to dictate to the people as to how things will be. Well these dictators are in our employ; We are the "Boss." When the government controls the people instead of the people controlling the government we are all doomed.

J.P. Dawes,
Haliburton.

Let's license boaters to ensure safety boating operation. It also set a minimum age limit.

The original bill had fines of $1,000 and loss or suspension of the motor boat licence for any offence under the act, including impaired or careless operation.

With over one million boats in Ontario — more per capita than any other province or state in North America — there is no law requiring drivers be tested, trained, licenced or of a minimum age.

Last year, the Ontario Cottagers' Association asked for improved enforcement, noise and speed control and guidelines for motor size related to lake size. The noise problem is almost as big a factor for cottagers as safety, it seems.

The last bill McLean brought to the Legislature, after some people were drowned in another canoeing accident in his watery riding, also wanted to make the wearing of life jackets mandatory, but lobbyists scoffed at it as "just another layer of regulation."

The noise factor aside, most of these issues have more to do with what one cottager called "mindless motor owners" with monsters who turn out 200 horsepower and can go over 150 km/h on any size of lake.

As he pointed out, if they decided that any road was declared an open drag-strip with no limits on speed or noise or racing, you'd get people upset about it. Why not with boats?

It would seem that there are always some who are determined to visit the peace and tranquillity we offer just to destroy it.

And their powerful lobby groups keep reminding me of the U.S. gun lobby — who are currently complaining that a family of four can only buy 28 guns a month in Virginia and have sworn to fight the law until it is quashed...

Night of fireworks, jumping skunks

orable bang of his old favourites. He was a patient man. So they cleaned up the kitchen, put out the garbage and went to bed.

It seemed as though Ron had just drifted off to sleep when he felt a poke in his side. It was his wife, lying very still except for her over-active elbow. Struggling back to the here and now, Ron soon gathered that she thought there were several bears on the other side of their bedroom wall. Thumps, grunts and strange rattlings were coming from outside the house and they seemed too close for comfort.

Ron quietly slipped out of bed, feeling rather than seeing his wife at his heels. He peered through the window on the door but saw nothing. No huge humped shapes brushed against the house. But something was causing the noise and Ron searched the darkness for an indication of what was going on. An animal, surprisingly small compared to the feared bear, was ripping through their garbage. He turned on the deck light.

It was a skunk. When the light flashed on, it lifted its head questioningly to expose the pink curve of a lobster claw protruding from the side of its mouth. Then down went its head again, happily buried in the lobster remains and oblivious to anything else.

Neither Ron nor his wife were thrilled to see the creature. True it was not a bear. But it was making a terrible mess. At the same time they did not want to antagonize it. Ron tapped on the window, then hammered on the door. This time the skunk never even lifted its head. The lobster was much too good. Then Ron had a thought. There was an old racoon that hung around by the stream out back. If it got a whiff of lobster and tangled with the skunk, their house would be high for weeks. He talked it over with his wife.

It was her idea. Since the skunk needed a big incentive to leave, she suggested one of his little firecrackers might do the trick. All they wanted was noise. They did not want to hurt the animal, Ron thought it was a great idea. He slid open the screen on the window and threw out a lit firecracker.

Unfortunately, due to the age of the firecracker, its fuse was very dry and burnt very quickly. Instead of rolling a foot or two before going off, the firecracker exploded almost as it hit the deck, directly beside the skunk.

They had never seen a skunk jump, let alone so high. It went straight up as though ricocheting off a trampoline and even before coming back to earth, its legs were moving. Ron later said he had never seen a skunk run before either. He had seen them amble and waddle. But this one had streaked. And it had left without a scent of trouble. That was probably its first and last lobster dinner.

CULTURE CARVED IN STONE

You are not hallucinating.

There are little stone men standing on the rocky curves of Highway 118, entering and exiting Haliburton Village. They are called Inuk shuk and are a part of the Inuit culture. Artist John Leonard, who sculpted a similar figure for Sir Sandford Fleming College last year, thought it would be interesting to mark Haliburton County with this unique cultural symbol.

Seven-year-old Kyle Urquhart shared his birthday celebration with the rest of the country last week.

Urquhart, born July 1st, raised the flag at West Guilford's Canada Day celebration last Thursday. Jessica Bain assisted with the flag-raising which signaled the beginning of the day-long birthday festivities.

"Golden" couple is feted

Dorset

Phyllis Briscoe - 766-2237

Many happy returns to Gwen Raven, Janet McDonald, and to Alicia Beuden. We wish them all much happiness for the future.

We congratulate Jean and Lorne Greenaway who celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary on May 15th. A family dinner was held at Nordic Inn and was followed by an intimate reception of close friends and relatives.

Jean and Lorne have lived in Dorset, since they were married 50 years ago, and raised their family here.

Two reading clubs will be running from July to the end of August, at the Sherborne Branch of the Haliburton Public Library in Dorset. For ages two to six there is the "Out of This World Reading Club", to explore a variety of books. "Getting Hooked on Reading" is a program for children aged 6 to 12, to collect their own "catch" of books. Both programs involve home reading, at the readers own pace, with library reinforcements and a final reading certificate.

The Dorset Lions Club held its 21st "Charter Night" dinner and dance on June 19th at the Dorset Recreation Centre. It was attended by the Lions, their wives and guests. A delicious buffet dinner was served by the Dorset Lifelines. The speaker for the evening was District Governor, George Blanchford from Collingwood.

Lion Chief, Steve Woolman was Chairman for the evenings festivities. Awards and Perfect attendance pins were presented to deserving Lions. An "Honorary Life Membership" was awarded to Lion Frank Large. Lion Len Barry, Charter President, and 21 year Perfect Attendance member, was given the second highest award in Lionism, The "Helen Keller" award. This award is given to recognize outstanding work and dedication of a member and is given on behalf of Lions International.

Congratulations to all award winners. These members are a credit to the Lions organization.

It's nice to welcome former residents back to the community. Recent weekend guests of Marion Tyson were Vi Sampson and Maggie Bordeaux of Oshawa, the two ladies having resided in Dorset some years ago.

The Muskoka Dance Academy put on their annual year end recital. A great exhibition of the various types of dance that the children studies over the winter. A great deal of talent was exhibited by the dancers, a tribute to their teachers.

There were five youngsters who sparkled brightly throughout the performance. They were Jessica Steele, Rebecca Meed, Lauren Lonsdale, Jesse Ryan and Brianna McKay. Jesse and Brianna were two of the Good Fairies attendants in Sleeping Beauty. We thought they all gave an excellent performance.

Legion golfers tops in zone

Legion Branch 129

Keith Whiten

Congratulations are in order for Cdes. Beryl Gorin, Don Campbell, Ab Norman and Jack DeYoung, for winning the Zone Golf tournament in Beaverton on June 26th. Cde. Beryl also recorded the second lowest score, an 83! Our second team, consisting of Cdes. John Sutherland, Jack Gorin, Murray Norman and Fred Knight, also did well, finishing 4th. Well done! The winning team now goes on to represent the Zone in the District Championships in Port Hope, on August 7th.

Anyone who visited the Branch clubroom on Canada Day, had the benefit of seeing the clubroom gaily decorated with red and white streamers and balloons, together with an array of Maple Leaf flags, all courtesy of Cde. Doreen Hawman, our Branch Service Officer. Also in the clubroom at present, is the magnificent Barbecue and accessories, being raffled off by the Seniors Club, so be sure to get your tickets. The Draw takes place at Bluegrass on the 8th August. Talking of the Bluegrass Festival, reservations are coming in at a brisk pace. Remember, there is a reduced ticket rate until July 30th.

Many readers will have seen the Boat, motor and trailer, parked on the main street outside the IGA. Tickets are on sale for this package until the draw, on August 7th, also at the bluegrass Festival. Anyone willing to help sell these tickets are asked to contact Cde. Dave Sturtevant, at 457-2571.

Members who have signed up for the Blue Jays trip on August 25th, will be pleased to hear that Br. 375, Richmond Hill, have kindly invited us to call there after the game when they intend to provide us with a hot meal and hospitality. Now that's Comradeship!

Branch 129 was well represented on the 27th June, when over 30 members attended the Zone F4 Drumhead held in Minden. Despite the heavy rain and hailstones terminating the Service and Parade prematurely, meeting old friends and Comrades made the day an enjoyable one. The District F Drumhead is scheduled for August 15th, in Deseronto. A bus will be provided if enough members express interest, so sign up early, or call the office.

Next Tuesday, the 13th July, the Legion Hall will once again be the venue for the Annual Blood Donor Clinic. It is very important that we collect as much as possible for the Red Cross. Help us achieve this by donating a little of your time, (and a pint of your blood) to this worthy cause. Everybody will be made most welcome, so come on out, and if you are not already connected with Legion, after your donation you will find members willing to show you around and help you with any enquiries you may have.

The rescheduled July General Meeting will be held this Thursday July 8th, at 2000 hrs.

HELPING THE HOSPITAL: President Bill Juby and Comrade Keith Whiten of the Haliburton Legion present a cheque for $1,000 to Haliburton Hospital Auxiliary President Marion Vanschaik and Treasurer Hilda Sealey. The Auxiliary is trying to raise $100,000 for a new x-ray machine and has almost reached the halfway point. Donations are always welcome.

Echo breathes a sigh of clean relief

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

DAVE FREWING GINGERLY opens the plastic garbage bag to expose its contents. Shrouded in a thick, grey dust is a paper cup, broken tiles, wire, cement and too many things you wouldn't want to describe. (At least he doesn't include the two 1977 Playboy magazines he also found.)

On a Sunday afternoon, Frewing had swept out the heating ducts of the Haliburton County Echo and this bag was his rather dubious prize. For several years, the detritus of a working office made its way through the ducts where they stayed, collecting dust as it were.

The ducts were cleaned after Echo staff politely complained to their landlords, Peter Curry and the doctors with the Haliburton Medical Centre. Colds seemed to last for weeks and if one person in the office was sick, everybody got sick. Allergies seemed to act up shortly after one arrived at work and cleared up shortly after one left. Kleenex were in short supply. Every time the furnace was filled with oil, the fumes were drawn into the office, making stomachs turn and heads ache. The worst smell, though, would occasionally filter out of a small cubbyhole. We thought the smell was caused by dead mice. In the middle of winter it was a choice between opening the front door and freezing, or taking a couple of aspirins and hoping the smell would be gone soon.

It wasn't exactly sick building syndrome, but the Echo employees were sick of the dusty and sometimes foul air.

The latter problem was solved first. It turns out the dead mouse smell was caused by our connection to the sewer line. We felt vindicated when the problem was identified - that smell had been real, and it had been really awful. Now, whenever things start to smell bad, we pour two buckets of water down a hole in the cubbyhole.

Frewing was called in to solve the other problems. Some fine-tuning was done to the duct which supposedly draws fresh air into the Echo. (Since the duct opens onto the street, close to where the oil truck empties its contents into the furnace, the word fresh is a dubious distinction.) That left the ducts to be cleaned.

"A lot of people don't realize how much dirt gets in there," says Frewing, who owns Dave Frewing Heating. "The ducts should be cleaned once every two years. It really breeds germs if you don't, especially if you have a dead squirrel or mouse. We did one house that had 14 bats in the ducts."

When the air is drawn into the ducts, it brings all the germs and dust with it. Some of the dust collects in the ducts, some of it blows out again with the warm air, causing the allergic reaction.

The Echo's ducts might have been dirty, but at least they didn't cause Frewing's hair to fall out.

Several years ago, he and his partner spent two years cleaning the ducts at Princess Margaret Hospital, a cancer treatment centre in Toronto. "We could stand in the muck and it was this deep," he says, holding his hands about a foot apart. "We could shovel it out."

A few days later, Frewing was combing his hair and it started coming out in clumps. He and his partner eventually lost all their body hair, probably because of the chemotherapy chemicals which had been drawn up into the vent. Although they had been "dressed like Ninjas" and covered from head to foot, the chemicals had made their way into their bodies. Frewing now has regular medical check-ups.

If people aren't worried about their health, maybe they would be concerned about how much money it costs to run a dirty system. There's no sense cleaning a furnace unless the ducts are cleaned because all the old dust would just be drawn into the new furnace. As well, the easier it is for a furnace to draw in clean air, the less energy it requires.

"You could save yourself - if you regularly clean your ducts - two to five years for a furnace and your maintenance bills would be cut in half," says Frewing. The cost of cleaning a household system is $100 to $200.

New houses aren't immune either. Frewing says work crews often sweep debris into the return air hole in the floor. "As soon as the construction is over, cups, lunch bags, dry wall, swish, swish, swish."

In the city, most new buildings are draft free, and there are rules about how many air changes there must be to prevent people from getting "cabin fever" or falling asleep at their desks. Legionnaire's Diseases is also caused when germs get trapped in a ventilation system.

Frewing believes that clean ducts will become more and more important to people.

But Dr. Alex Hukowich, the new chief medical officer with the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge Health Unit, sees dirty ducts as just being one small part of office air quality problems.

"Certainly air that's free of significant contaminants and having enough ventilation and air exchange are all important," he said in a telephone interview from his Port Hope office. Cleaning ducts helps, but is not the only solution. Other problems include not cleaning filters,

"A lot of people don't realize how much dirt gets in there," says Dave Frewing, who recently cleaned the Echo's air vents after staff complained of stuffy noses and colds that simply wouldn't go away not ensuring there's enough fresh air in all work areas, and the irritating effects of dry air.

"There's an increasing awareness of what can happen if air quality is not good," he says. The issue arose when city dwellers became aware of the health problems caused by smog, which is dirt and pollution suspended in moist air. Now, especially with airtight buildings, there's awareness about indoor air quality as well.

Because there are so many of them, it is impossible to check for all air-borne contaminants, just as it is impossible to check drinking water for all harmful additives. One of the things to look out for in air is high levels of carbon dioxide, which people breathe out. Too much carbon dioxide in an office indicates there's not enough fresh air coming in.

Dr. Hukowich also points to office dynamics and psychology as part of the issue. In the old days, when a room felt stuffy, a worker could open the window; he had control over the situation. Today, windows don't open; he's lost control of his environment. The worker feels worse even though the air is still the same.

"We're a lot more concerned about what someone else controls than if we're controlling it ourselves," he says.

What if the worker complains to his boss about the stale air and the employer does nothing, either because it's not seen as a big issue or the employer feels the worker just ate too much at lunch. "If the employees feel their employer isn't listening to them, then that compounds the problem even more. It becomes an even broader issue, that management isn't responsive or doesn't listen to their concerns."

"Often, all kinds of issues are intertwined."

At the Echo, at least our landlords listened, and for that, we are grateful - and much happier and healthier workers.

German student must leave the land of igloos

by ANDREW MEESON
Staff Reporter

IN THE BRIGHT, warm summer sunlight of a Haliburton afternoon, the pressures and commitments of Germany seem a long way from Janina Oepke's mind. But come August 1, she will be flying back to her family and friends, carrying memories of her year in Canada.

Janina has been on an 11-month Rotary exchange visit to Haliburton and has learned much more about Canada than she knew when she first arrived.

Rotary exchange student Janina Oepke has enjoyed her year in Haliburton

"When you hear what people think of Canada - they say, 'Do they live in igloos and ride snowmobiles, or something?' she laughs. "It's just not true."

Well, the igloos at any rate.

Like many Europeans, she had few preconceived notions about our country.

"I didn't know much about Canada," she says. "You hear only about the States, and there's not much room for Canada."

Janina certainly managed to rectify that situation while she was here. She has attended Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, taking courses from a variety of levels because of her abilities - some were OAC, some were Grade 10. The confusion over schooling will continue once she returns home. There she will have to take exams to know what level she is at after a year away.

Despite the differences in cultures, Janina seems to have adapted quite well to Canadian customs, especially in winter.

In January she and one of her four host families traveled to Florida like many Canadians to escape the cold.

"We went to Walt Disney World," enthuses the 17-year-old. "You see it on T.V. and everybody's talking about it, but I'd never been there. It was great. It was not the greatest weather, so not many people were there - we had no lineups."

Rest assured, Janina did not miss out on any of the frigid follies of the Great White North. In February she made a trip to the nation's capital and discovered what it means to be cold.

"In Ottawa it was so cold we couldn't breathe outside," says Janina. "I went shopping. For me it was too cold to go skating on the canal."

Coming from the town of Bad Homburg in central Germany, she was used to going with her family to Austria to go skiing. Here she discovered she didn't have to go very far for snow.

"We didn't have any snow at all this year," she laughs about her hometown. "Maybe I should have sent some home."

Although she was homesick initially - as is natural for someone so far from home - the lively exchange student has had no trouble making friends here. In fact, many have said they intend on visiting her in Germany.

As you might expect, language has been a source of amusement and frustration. Like many of her friends in Germany, Janina has studied English since Grade 7 and had some degree of fluency. But nothing is quite the same as trying to actually survive in an unfamiliar tongue.

"When I first got here, I was standing there listening to the people - they spoke so fast. It took me a bit to get into the language."

She arrived in Haliburton a week before school started last September, and to make matters worse, caught the flu, which blocked her ears, further making it difficult for her to understand the new language.

"It was so exhausting, I was so tired that after school I went straight to bed," she laughs. Being jet lagged from her flight didn't help matters either.

While she has been here, her family in Germany has played host to a Canadian exchange student, whose language problems were quite a bit different.

The exchange students weren't very happy because they went to learn German. It's hard to learn the language when everybody speaks English to them. "This is a situation Janina can't relate to, except for Haliburtonians' occasional 'Guten Tag' or 'Weh gehts?'"

Coming from a town only 25 kilometres from Frankfurt, Janina is most impressed with the natural beauty of the area.

"From the plane I just saw lakes and trees. I love it here. I know when I go back home I won't like it because everything is so paved and grey and here everything is so green."

Besides being a crash course in Canadian geography, she says she has learned a valuable lesson on how to be independent.

"At home there are so many things you normally don't pay for. And here suddenly you have to pay for this, this and this and then the money's gone."

Janina does not know how she will manage being back home with her parents now that she has gotten a taste of her own independence.

"They phoned in June and said, 'Nina come home, that's enough'" she pauses, looking out the window at the lake. "But I don't know..."

Motorcyclists ride for sight

Coboconk

Sheila Lake - 454-2314

Sympathy goes out to the bereaved family of the late Etta (Weaver) Dale, who passed away in Lindsay on June 11th. Etta was a Coboconk native, and was laid to rest in Fenelon Falls.

Another Coboconk native, Maizie (Breaw) Kelly, passed away in Edmonton, Alb. on Sat. June 12th. Maizie made her home with her niece, Phyllis, and her husband Rev. Bruce Fisher. Maizie owned and operated a restaurant (now the drug store) across the street from the Home Hardware Store, to the bereaved family, sincere sympathy in the loss of your loved one. Maizie was laid to rest in Coboconk Cemetery.

Norland Seniors are invited to a pot luck lunch on July 5th. The Coboconk Seniors have planned a bake and lawn sale for July 17th, across from the Post Office on Mildred Faulkner's lawn. Donations are most welcome!

Last weekend saw lots of motorcycles in town. It was the annual "Ride For Sight" and I think everyone was aware that the riders were here for a good cause. Of course Fenelon Falls had the bulk of the riders, with tents and Accommodations set up in the fair grounds there. Reports are that the estimated 4,000 bikers raised over $400,000, despite very miserable weather, so much rain all weekend! The money raised goes to eye research.

On June 11th and 12th, the Ontario Provincial Police held their annual Torch Run for special Olympics. Runners were some of the off duty policemen, who joined the heartier souls out pounding the pavement.

There are still many on the sick list. Peggy and Wally Hall are both in Ross Memorial hospital. Peggy was home for a while, but had to return to hospital on the weekend.

Danny Bradimore was admitted to hospital last week.

Laurie Campbell remains in hospital. Margaret "Tootie" Hill remains in Ross Memorial Hospital.

Isobel Wessell and Carolyn Strong are both now home. To all you who are ill, get well wishes go out to you.

Earl Prentice is doing well since his heart surgery.

Laurie Campbell's father, Bunny Miles of Norwood, took ill while visiting Laurie in hospital in Lindsay, and at last report, is in hospital in Peterborough.

The Life Force Team, eight young people from the west, spent last week here and in the surrounding area, where they spoke, and put on drama's in schools, on the evils of drugs and alcohol, and talked to young people on the street, and instilled a healthy and common sense attitude of taking care of their lives, and not destroying themselves, and their future. Many parents expressed their appreciation for the work that the team done, while here in the area. The team has been on the road for several months, and have been well received, wherever they went.

Around 2:15 a.m. in the early hours of Sunday morning, we were awakened by our Bexley Fire Dept. trucks as they sped up Baseline Road, sirens screaming in the damp night air. We later learned a boat house up on the lake was burned.

Saturday night, the family of Wib Switzer held a surprise birthday and retirement party for Wib at the Coboconk Community Centre. Wib turned 65 last week (the 17th) and has been retired for some time. Music was supplied by Greg Whalen and friends, a time of dancing, visiting and a tasty lunch was enjoyed by all. Best wishes for a healthy and happy future, Wib!!

Birthday greetings to Olga Weaver, who had her 84th birthday on June 21st. Olga has been in a wheel chair since a stroke made her disabled in Dec. 1989, but remains very cheerful.

Birthday greetings also to Thelma Watson on June 22nd, and anniversary greetings to Wayne and Audrey Downes on June 21st and Chris and Joan Badly on June 23rd.

Mrs. Barbara Murchinson spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Debbie Pereira and family at Acton.

Mrs. Daniels is home, after spending a month away on the east coast, where she visited her mother in Cape Breton, and other relatives in the area.

About 500 students and adults enjoyed a family barbecue at the Ridgewood Public School on June 21st.

Winner in Lynn's market draw for June was Pat Watson of Norland.

Robb Parker was admitted to the St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough, where he underwent surgery.

Etta Hannivan is doing well following her surgery.

The Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses has launched its annual fundraising campaign. Information was distributed to all households in Haliburton County recently. Please support the V.O.N. and its programs in our community. Anyone who didn't receive the material should call the V.O.N. office at 754-9155. I know we all get flyers in the mail, so many that often they are tossed into the waste basket in the post office, so they are never read. But this is one little bulletin that deserves your serious attention. If the V.O.N. has not been of help to you, you must have a relative or neighbour who has benefited from their work. Help, if you can.

Peter Bowins, a Coboconk native, passed away at his Gravenhurst home on June 10th. Our sympathy goes out to the many relatives in this area.

Although we have had a lot of very wet weather, and not much danger of forest fires, still, remember, you must have a fire permit before you burn brush or grass. The permit is needed until Oct. 31st, when after that date, a permit is not needed. The permits are free, and available from your local fire permit issuer or the Ministry of Natural Resources in your area.

The Coboconk Lion's Club is holding an Arts and Craft Show in the Community Hall, on Sat. July 10th. There is still space or a table for rent, at the show, available for the low charge of $15. Phone Gayle Munro at 454-2091 if you wish to be a part of this show.

The 3rd weekend in July has always been Coboconk's Festival weekend. It's too bad that Norland has planned its Wild West Weekend for the same dates. Perhaps another year, a different date can be set, so that each little town can expect a good crowd. In any case, let's pray we don't have rain!!

Julie Snell, 5, Kristen Campbell, 2, Tanisha Holmes, 19 months (with mother Carol), and Alyssa Crowe, 4, were the winners of the CHACE 10th anniversary colouring contest at the Minden day care centre. Red Cross Homemakers complete support program

The Haliburton Kawartha Pine Ridge District Health Unit Board of Health in co-operation with the Peterborough Long-Term Care Office is proud to recognize the successful completion of the Home Support Level III Program by 15 Red Cross Homemakers in Haliburton County.

The Haliburton Kawartha Pine Ridge District Health Unit Board of Health and its Home Care Staff wish to acknowledge the dedication and commitment of the following agencies in launching a successful In Home Respite Program in Haliburton County: The Peterborough Area Long-Term Care Office, Canadian Red Cross Society Lindsay and District, Haliburton Kawartha Pine Ridge District Health Council, and Sir Sandford Fleming College. But more importantly, the Board of Health pays tribute to the Red Cross Homemakers in Haliburton County who have taken the time and made the effort to upgrade their skills. Their dedication to the needs of patients and their families has been exemplary over the many years that Red Cross Homemaker service has been purchased by the Board of Health.

The Board of Health, through its Home Care Program, and the Canadian Red Cross Society, through its Homemaker Program, submitted a joint proposal in mid 1991 to the Peterborough Long-Term Care Office for In Home Respite Care in Haliburton County. The Haliburton County Directional Plan studies had identified that amongst residents of Haliburton County who were cared for in their own homes, there were a significant number of caregivers whose responsibilities in caring for a family member were extremely onerous.

The Proposal was subsequently accepted in late 1991 by the Peterborough Long-Term Care Office. Funding of up to $175,000 annually was approved to provide In Home Respite services to residents of Haliburton County.

Many of the families/persons who required In Home Respite were already receiving Home Care services, including Homemaker Services, under the Health Insurance Act. The professional Nursing, Therapies and Homemaker services are however limited by the Health Insurance Act regulations. The principles embodied in the proposal were to provide respite caregivers with appropriate skills to meet the extensive care needs of these patients and to assure that the respite services were the least intrusive possible for the patients and families. Thus, the focus of the In Home Respite Proposal was that well trained/educated Red Cross Homemakers available as respite 'caregivers' would address these principles.

To maximize the homemakers' skills, a Home Support Level III Program was mounted. Sir Sandford Fleming College and the Lindsay and District Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society worked together to plan and develop the course. Home Support Level III was available to 15 homemakers.

The In Home Respite services in Haliburton County are unique. Few, if any other areas of our Province have this service available to its residents. The Red Cross Homemakers can be proud of the contribution they make to the care of frail elderly and disabled persons in Haliburton County.

Piano music delightful

Senior League

Winnifred Barnum - 286-2140

Faithful Kathleen Owens was here Saturday, June 19th to entertain us with an afternoon of piano music.

On Sunday afternoon Estella Burch came to read to us. We are enjoying the book very much. Chapel service was conducted by Rev. John Burgess and Ruth Worthington played the organ.

Monday lunch was enjoyed at the "Brown Owl". Greg Sawyer drove a bus load, residents and volunteers, 29 of us to the restaurant. They had an area reserved for us with one volunteer at each table to assist. The volunteers were Dorothy Hunter, Helen Donaldson, Jean Robson, Beth and Fred Parker and John Thomas, guided by Doris and Greg. We could order anything we wished and were served very quickly. We completed the outing by having ice cream at Kawartha Dairy. Thanks to everyone who helped. There is so much involved loading and unloading the residents.

Louise Leonard held the Tuesday morning Chapel Service. Dottie Muirhead had crafts in the afternoon and Corinne Arsenaault helped with our Tuesday evening card games. Thank you Dottie and Corinne.

On Wednesday, Bingo was held in the Auditorium called by Doris Robertson-Alton and aided by volunteers. It was an enjoyable afternoon.

Our regular Thursday tea party and monthly Birthday Tea was hosted by the Geleert Ladies and Dorothy McElwain made Friday at Happy Hour, the Grandfathers were here for the entertainment. They are Bill Payne, George Smith from Oshawa and Karl Hadley. If they can't all come, some of them always make it. It is certainly appreciated by Hyland Crest. Many thanks to the volunteers, Don Holden, Ellen Holden and Mary Guillemain.

Please Take Note: July 17, 1993 - A Flea Market will be held at Hyland Crest Auditorium to raise funds for the Special Care Area. If you should have anything saleable you do not need, we would appreciate your donating them to our Flea Market.

The residents extend their heartfelt thanks to all those mentioned above.

the lovely birthday cake (from scratch). The birthday ladies were: Lola Prentice - June 11, Grace Coburn - June 23, and Winnifred Barnum - June 6. When we finished tea the Geleert ladies; Ricky Francis, Joyce Hill, Jan Hallohon, Audrey Vick, Dorothy Melburn, Joan Moore, Ruth Kellett, Dorothy McElwain, Kit Schroter and Isa Hillyard, had a sing-a-long and the ladies really put emphasis on the songs they sang.

We had a treat Thursday evening when Sylvia and Dick Thompson were our callers for Bingo. They filled in, in the absence of Kathy Woods. It was Dick's first time at calling Bingo and he did a great job, as well as Sylvia who kept us on track.

THANK YOU: Cadet Eva Wheeler accepts a cheque for $2,000 presented by Wilberforce Legion president Joyce Gillies. The money was raised to help pay for a bus for cadets at Camp Brannigan. At rear cadets commanding officer Captain Bruce Harris with Ethel Scott and Pat Gallen.

NOTHING RUNS LIKE A DEERE

It's Really Feeling Like Home!

Four years ago we opened our hearing service to Haliburton County ...so many things have happened since then.

We have settled into our new home, and have been blessed with good neighbours, and good friends like our co-worker, Merle Reid.

Our youngest son has graduated from grade eight with good friends and great teachers like Mrs. Wynans and Mrs. Obee. In our newest venture - KID KOUNTRY - we've had the opportunity of sharing many hours of music and fun with our new community.

Our Haliburton office keeps growing with help from Carol Dewey and Peg Bradford And the support for the Minden Hearing Service keeps on coming... from area Physicians, from fellow business folk, from friends.

And once again we take this time to thank those in our community who have supported us thus far, and those we will have the opportunity of serving in the future.

Thank you!

Wilberforce has a party

To celebrate Canada Day, the people of Wilberforce gathered at the Lloyd Watson Centre. The choir sang some old favourites, such as the Maple Leaf Forever, the Legion raised the flag and then everyone headed indoors for some "multicultural cake." (It was made with different flavours. Below, Margaret Harrison cuts the cake while at right, Leah and Joel Foster like the icing Congratulations to Mike and Sherri Smith (nee Sheehy) on the birth of their son, Joshua Harcourt, on June 11. He weighed in at 9 pounds 6 ounces. Proud grandparents are Ted and Ruth Sheehy of Wilberforce and Bill and Sandy Smith of Harcourt.

The Monmouth Seniors' Club ended its year with a delicious barbecue prepared by the men. Thanks boys, it was a lot of fun. Margaret Harrison thanked everyone for their co-operation during her years as president. Life memberships were presented to Annie Rowley, Edna Tighe and Maureen Finlay. Percy Goddard was not present to receive his certificate as he has not been feeling very well lately. The new executive was wished success in the coming year.

Last week I said that because of the Bingo in Harcourt that the Euchre Party would not take place on July 9th. Since then it has been decided to hold the card party after all. It will take place at the Lloyd Watson Centre on July 9th at 7:30. See you there.

On August 7th there will be a giant Country and Western Show at the Monmouth Arena. Doors will open at 8 o'clock. A full two hour show will be presented by some great Country and Western entertainers from Sterling, Bancroft, Norland, Harcourt and surrounding areas. I will keep you up to date on this as it develops. There will be fiddlers, dancers, and all your favourite songs, sung just the way you like them.

The Canada Day Celebrations were very well attended, and a rousing rendition of O Canada and Happy Birthday was sung. The Legion raised the flag during the singing of O Canada and it was a nice feeling to see it flying high. The Legion then visited the Cenotaph to spend a quiet moment remembering their fallen comrades.

Everyone was invited inside to enjoy the cake and coffee supplied by the Heritage Guild. It was also a colorful edition to the day to see all the Provincial flags on display. It serves to remind us that we are a far flung nation and we can be justly proud of celebrating our day with each other.

Last week Sister Jocelyn Monette of the Catholic Biblical Association of Canada visited Our Lady of Lourdes Parish, which includes Cardiff, Aspley and Highland Grove. Sister spoke of her great devotion to the Scriptures, and how important it is for people to read and study the word of God. She is also an accomplished musician and led the congregation in some very lively singing. She promised to come back and see us again and we will be looking forward to having her with us

A 30th Anniversary pot luck supper is being held for Father Tad on July 9th, at the Cardiff Community Centre. Mass will be at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7. The Curling Club had a giant sale on Saturday. Also the Anglican Church had a Bake/Garage/Rummage Sale.

This week-end remember the Grenville Martin Memorial Baseball Tournament in Harcourt. And also the giant Bingo Friday Evening at the Harcourt Rec. Centre at 7:30, with a Jackpot of $1,000. There will also be a dance on Saturday evening.

Nunn reunion attracts five generations

West Guilford
Eleanor Cooper - 754-2278

Tom and Elaine Nunn's house on Hwy. 118 was the scene of the Nunn family reunion. Thirty-four relatives gathered from near and far to celebrate - from matriarch, Elizabeth Nunn of Parklane Apt. and Rose (Nunn) and Wren Barry of the Irish Line to Jackie Nunn from Florida and Danny Nunn from B.C. Others included Betty Smith's daughter, husband and family from Cleveland, Ohio; and still more relatives from San Antonio Texas, and California. Rose and Wren's son, David was also present.

Five generations in all were represented and presumably a good time was had by all. (I don't think I've ever used that phrase before. Though the temptation's always there?)

From St. Peter's church: three items: 1. The salad supper was a super delicious event for the seventy-or so who attended on Sat. June 24. Buffet style suited the gathering and a friendly atmosphere reigned. 2. On Sun. July 4 the Rev. Leslie Dawson, Chaplain in the Canadian Armed Forces from Pettawawa, is to be the speaker at the 9:15 a.m. service. Leslie is the wife of Peter Dawson, son of Nellie and Stan. 3. The last three Sundays in each of the summer months will be Holy Communion's. Other services will be those of Morning Prayer, all at 9:15.

Diane and Scott McCymont of Mississauga were guests for a week at the home of Diane's parents, Cliff and Colleen Davison.

The new address for Beth and Grey Chandelier is 85 Maple St., St. Catharines, L2R 2B1.

Our sympathy to the family of the late Alf Titus who died on June 25, 1993.

Decoration Day service on Sunday, June 27, at Maple Lake United Church was led by Donna Quance. This was her last service with the congregation before the new minister, the Rev. Peter Walford-Davis is welcomed by the Minden Charge.

Now for the high school graduation. From this area we congratulate David Ackerblade, son of Bob Ackerblade of Minden and Pat of Alberta, home for a week for her son's graduation; Skye Austen, daughter of Laurel Yateman and Dan Austen; Stephanie Bain, daughter of Janet and David Bain; Andrea Barry, daughter of Merrill and Merrie Barry; Cori Burden, daughter of Bill and Edna Burden; Sonja Fluegel, daughter of Jacqueline and Reiner Fluegel; Deanna Houghton, daughter of Gord Houghton, Darren Johnston, son of Shirley and Bruce Johnston; Michelle Simms, daughter of Mike and Mari Simms; Colin Sisson, son of Bob and Sherron Sisson; and Angela Teasdale, daughter of Gail and Brian Teasdale; These students were awarded Ontario Secondary School Graduation Diplomas. Well done, all.

The following students attained certification for Ontario Academic Credits: Tricia Bain, daughter of Pat and Gerald Bain; Laura Chumbley, daughter of Valerie and Ken Chumbley; Gesa Fluegel, daughter of Elke and Wolf Fluegel; Rebecca Gimmi, daughter of Bobbi Gimmi; and Angie Fraser, daughter of Bob and Vicki Fraser. Congratulations to all.

Happiness is being able to congratulate David and Michelle Chambers on the birth of their son, Cameron David on June 18, 1993. So happy, as well, for grandparents David and Beth As well as Michelle's parents who all share in the joy of this new life. Petra Pequegnat must also be very proud and pleased with this, her first great-grandchild. P.S. Of course the column's proud to salute this year's West Guilford Citizen of the year! (Earl Cooper).

PERRY GRADUATION: Sheldon Perry has just graduated from the University of Ottawa with an Honours Bachelor of Commerce-major in Accounting. July 5, 1993: Highlight for this week was the Yard Sale on Saturday.

The Old Timers Group, and Barb Fryer would like to thank all the people who donated articles for the sale. It is appreciated that the community was able to get behind this fund raising effort so that all residents will be able to enjoy bus trips during the summer.

Many of you saw the photographs in the Echo of the Wheelchair Rally, which was held Saturday, June 26. Here again the response of the community made the efforts of the staff and volunteers worthwhile.

Thanks go out to those businesses which donated refreshments, to the volunteers who sat with collection bottles in town, and to those who pushed residents through town.

The costumes for the volunteers were obtained from Special Effects in Minden. The money raised will go to Alzheimer research.

High flyers:
Stanhope airport flying club held its third annual fly-in brunch last Sunday morning to kick off the summer flying season. About 50 flyers from as far away as Gananoque flew in to the airfield in all kinds of planes, including a World War II-era Harvard trainer, for the brunch.

Boredom doesn't exist at Kidsfest

Have your kids complained there's nothing to do yet? Well, there will be no one complaining on Saturday, July 10 when Dorset hosts Kidsfest '93.

The activities take place at the Dorset school grounds from noon to 4 p.m.. By buying the $2 admission ribbon, kids can take part in a myriad of activities, including kids karoake, bubble blowing, parachute games, mural painting, balloon shaving (??), pudding eating, balloon dart throw and the water balloon toss. (Wear a rain coat before you try to shave those balloons!)

Special guests will include Frank Drinkwater with his "foot stampin' music"; favourite mascot Dana the Dinosaur; and Wilma and Shannon, teddy bear picnic story tellers. Children are asked to bring their favourite teddy to join in the fun. Maybe even the bears can learn to do the limbo in time for the fun-filled contest. The afternoon begins with a community barbecue lunch, featuring hot dogs, cold drinks, freezies and chips.

The Dorset Recreation Centre is organizing the event, and reminds parents that all children must have adult supervision. In the highly unlikely chance that it rains, events will take place at the Centre. Funds raised during Kidsfest will go towards the Centre's recreational programs, which kids can enjoy all year.

Mom's, Dads, Grandmas and Grandpas who gave me the privilege to day care their 77 children for the last 16 years. I'll miss their antics, first steps and words, their love and hugs, smiles, even their cries. They have given me so much. I pray they will remember the good times, the sharing, the friendships and the correction also. Remember me fondly. Love Auntie
Clara (Higgins).

I WOULD LIKE TO Thank all my neighbours, friends and relatives for cards, phone calls, flowers and fruit basket during my time in Civic Hospital and since I came home. It was sure appreciated. Thank you again. Jeleen Crarey.
